McPherson Community Building
122 E Marlin St.

Meteorologists from the National Weather Service office in Wichita will be presenting information that will help prepare storm spotters and weather enthusiasts for the upcoming storm season. Our staff will provide an in-depth weather presentation that will engage the audience by teaching them about the different types of storms, the individual storm features that help a person to recognize the storms potential severity, how to report hazardous weather and severe weather safety.

The presentation is open to anyone that has an interest in weather. There is no charge to attend, you do not have to register, and you do not have to sign up to be a spotter. If you are interested in learning more about severe weather join us for a very interesting evening. Contact McPherson County Emergency Management and 911 Communications for questions at 620 245-1260.
